Known throughout Western Wayne County for her philanthropic efforts, Pauline Kniese Druley gave of her time and financial resources to create a positive impact in her community. Pauline was truly a F.A.R.M girl; a firm believer in love for Faith, Animals, Reading and Music. When Pauline passed away at the age of 105, she donated a portion of her estate to Reid Health Foundation.

A letter from our Board Chair

Friends of Reid,

Thanks to your philanthropy in 2015, we were able to continue addressing the health needs of this community and the surrounding counties by giving 30 grants to Reid Health. We were also grateful recipients to a truly remarkable gift from the Estate of Pauline Druley. The spirit of philanthropy that Pauline embodied continues to inspire us each and every day to make a difference in the lives of others. Her thoughtful plan will ensure that patients are taken care of for years to come. To learn more about our planned giving opportunities, I would encourage you to contact the Foundation staff.

In this issue of Mission Report, you will learn how one patient's perspective was changed and renewed after his care at Reid. You will read about the impact that our Therapy Dog Program has on our healing environment. Then you will see our Honor Roll of Donors.

There is more work to be done, and we will continue to match your gifts to meet patient needs.

Thank you for all that you do.

CHEYENNE

A child walking into a hospital may be scared, anxious, and dreading the unknown. However, when a toddler walked into Reid Health on February 3rd he was greeted by the sweet brown eyes of a therapy dog. The boy dropped his dad's hand and made a bee-line to hug the gentle German Shepherd. Cheyenne is one of 9 therapy dogs that grace the halls of Reid. Jim Hasecoster, Cheyenne's owner, has had 6 German Shepherds over the years. Other than Cheyenne, he currently has Dakota who is also a therapy dog but only visits schools. Jim loves coming to the hospital with his faithful companion and seeing the smiles on everyone's faces. "Last year when I first started, my first day here I was walking over by the inpatient elevators and a patient's family saw us coming. She immediately came over and starting loving on Cheyenne and said, 'This is just what I needed.' The families get just as much of a visit from dogs as the patients do."

While the little boy had quickly made his way towards the dogs, his older sister wasn't so sure. She hid behind her mother, who was encouraging the small girl to pet one of the dogs. Richard Bilbrey made his way over with his sweet natured dog, Harley, who immediately began wagging her tail. After a few seconds the girl began petting Harley and smiling up at her mother, no sign of the nervousness she had just displayed. Harley is 7 years old and has been visiting patients since the day Richard brought her home. The day I picked her up she was 10 weeks old and our first stop was to a nursing home where my mother was. One of the nurses at the nursing home noticed how sweet

Harley was and suggested Richard get her certified. She had therapy dogs too and she told me Harley was a natural." Richard got online and found the skills the dogs are tested on, he trained Harley himself, and then took her to Muncie for the 3 hour test. She received her certification and has been visiting the sick ever since.

Molly, a 6 year old Aussie/Collie

Molly, a 6 year old Aussie/Collie, waited patiently with her owners Brenda & Barry Beyer for it to be her turn to be loved on by the small children. Brenda's favorite part of having a therapy dog is seeing the smiles on people's faces. "You can tell it really touches them to see the dogs." Barry took out his phone and pulled up a picture, "This is why we do it", he said. The picture was of Barry during a recent surgery. He was laying in his bed and man's best friend, Molly, was sitting in a chair next to him. "I don't know who was more excited, me or her. She came in that room excited to see me and I was excited to see her too." Along with being a therapy dog, Molly also does dancing therapy. "She does K9 Musical Freestyle. We actually just had a competition in Michigan in October." Molly is Brenda &

Barry's first therapy dog and they love the healing effect she has on the patients and their families. "She really has an effect on everyone, the employees, the families, everybody! Everyone is always excited to see the dogs and you can tell it brightens their day."

Pet therapy is fun for all – who doesn't enjoy the unconditional love of a pet? It helps to reduce the feeling of stress and anxiety along with decreasing blood pressure and heart rate. This type of therapy has also shown to reduce pain, depression, and fatigue in patients. The first documented use of animals, in a therapeutic sense, dates back to the 9th Century, however, it originated at Reid in October of 1992. Colleen Brobeck and her Schnauzer, Gaben were the first pair in the Therapy Dog Program and they volunteered in the Physical Therapy department. Their main task was to facilitate interest in performing assigned therapy tasks. They brought joy to patients, staff, and the public until December 2003 when Gaben passed away. The program has since evolved to include a majority of departments at Reid.

Before becoming a therapy dog each dog must pass a series of tests and be certified by the Therapy Dogs International organization. "They are monitored annually for their health and vaccination protocols. In addition, many of these therapy teams continuously perform in obedience training and skill trials outside the hospital to keep them mentally engaged and disciplined so they are sharp when performing their therapy visits", John Herig, chair of the Canine Therapy Program at Reid writes. There is no set size or shape for a therapy dog and here at Reid we have many different breeds that vary in size. Many people recognize Alvin, a 150 pound Leonberger, and his trainer Julia Roberts. "He has reached national acclaim for his talent for ringing the bell while working for our local Salvation Army Kettle Drive", John recalls. The newest member is little Kona Kirk, a black lab, who at about a year old is still learning the necessary skills to become a therapy dog.

Dogs like Alvin have visited the hospital for years, whereas Kona is just beginning her adventure – but each dog's visit looks fairly similar. During their weekly visits you can find therapy dogs in the lobby, walking the hallways, and on the inpatient floors. Once they stop on an inpatient floor the handler will stop a patient's room and ask if they would like a visit from the dog. If the patient agrees the handler and dog will spend a few minutes with the patient allowing the patient time to pet and love on the dog. When an individual is hospitalized they can be removed from all comforts of home. We want to put our patients at ease as much as possible during their stay. The Reid Health Therapy Dog program is one way we bring a little comfort from home to every patient we touch. If you would like to support the dogs and their trainers the Reid Health Foundation has established a fund to accept donations to help support the efforts of the Therapy Dog Program. Interested in becoming a volunteer? Call (765) 983-3152.

"These unique animals take the patient's mind to happier times; remembering their personal pets waiting at home and recalling stories of childhood pets. Their memories are clear and full of details!"

– John Herig

“The best part about my stay was the interaction with the people that cared for me, There are people who perform their jobs, and there are people who perform their jobs because that’s what they truly want to do. For my caregivers, the job was just an extension of who they truly were.”

Dan Griffey

A photograph of a man and a woman standing outdoors in front of a red barn. The woman, on the left, has blonde curly hair, wears sunglasses, and a dark jacket. The man, on the right, has white hair and a mustache, and wears a plaid shirt. They are both smiling. The background shows the red siding of the barn and a clear blue sky. A blue banner at the bottom of the image contains the text 'Renewed Perspective'.

Renewed Perspective

It was a cold, icy January morning. I woke up at 3:30 a.m. with what seemed like indigestion. I remember laying there waiting for it to pass. When it didn't get better after 15 minutes, I decided to get up. I realized something was wrong when I couldn't stand and began to fall, catching myself with the dresser. I thought if I walked around the discomfort would go away, but it got worse. It soon intensified – my chest started hurting and my left arm became extremely heavy. At that moment I knew I was having a heart attack.

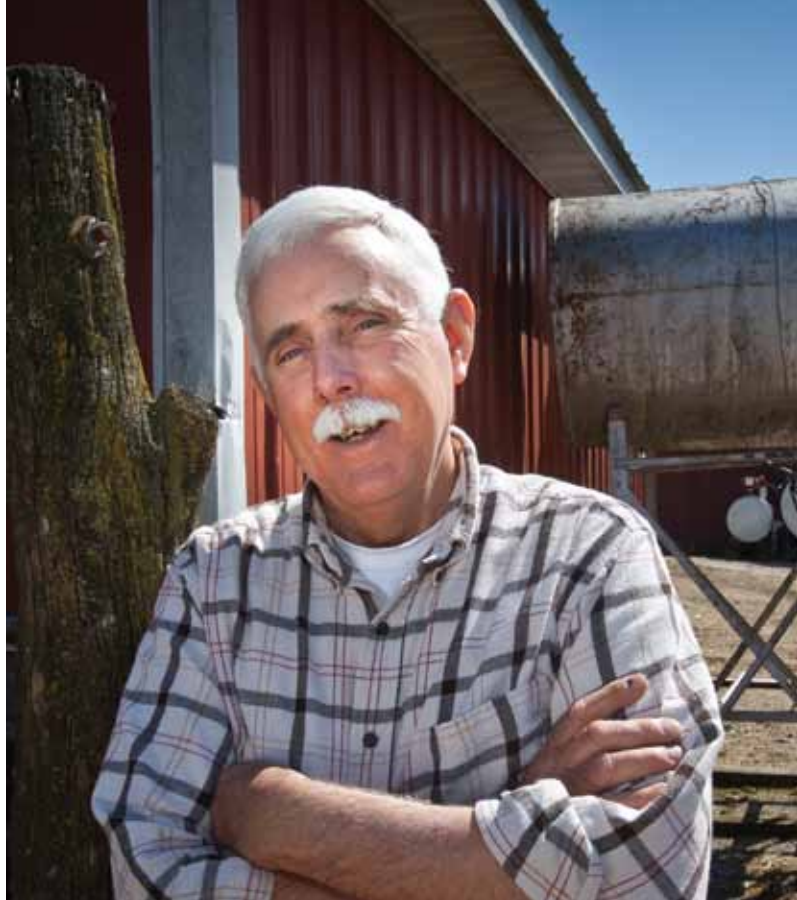

Dan Griffey had a blood pressure cuff in his home and decided to check his blood pressure, which was 200/127. "I had opposing thoughts," Dan said. "I knew I was having a heart attack, but I thought 'I can't be having a heart attack!'" He called for his wife, Teresa, and they headed to the Emergency Department at Reid Hospital.

Fortunately, Dan never lost consciousness. Within what seemed like only 10 minutes after they arrived at Reid, he was in surgery. One of his arteries was 100% blocked, but was corrected with a stent placement. "That morning went by so quickly – it was a blur," Teresa said.

Dan spent three days in the hospital recovering under the care of Cardiologist Dr. John McGinty. "The best part about my stay was the interaction with the people that cared for me," Dan said. "There are people who perform their jobs, and there are people who perform their jobs because that's what they truly want to do. For my caregivers, the job was just an extension of who they truly were."

Dan remained perplexed. A healthy lifestyle was important to Dan. He worked hard on his farm, ate healthy food and maintained a healthy weight. Yet, he had a heart attack.

"I pointedly asked Dr. McGinty to tell me what I did, so I wouldn't do it again," Dan said. "He said, 'Nothing – it just happened.'" With time, Dan realized if he hadn't taken care of his health and done all the right things, he could have ended up in a much worse situation.

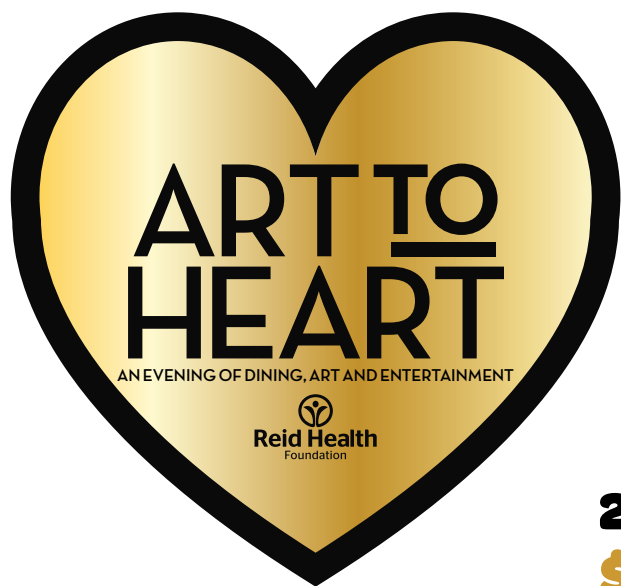

Dan did have a family history of heart issues. His father had three stents placed at a larger hospital in Indianapolis 15 years ago, and 2 years ago he received a pacemaker at Reid. "Years ago, we had a negative opinion of Reid heart care – this event changed my perspective," said Dan. "I don't believe I would have gotten any better care with any better outcome than what I received at Reid."

Just a week after being discharged from the hospital, Dan began cardiac rehabilitation. The 12-week program allows patients to slowly build their physical capacity while under the close watch of trained cardiology staff.

Dan is getting back to life, with a renewed perspective. He appreciates every day he is able to be with his family, farming with his three sons and spending time with his seven grandchildren.

"God has a plan for all of us," Dan said. "Life is such a precious gift. We shouldn't measure it by the negative events in our lives, but rather the good that develops from those events."

Art to Heart XXIV was able to raise nearly $58,000 in net profit that will be split between Reid's Telehealth Program and the Richmond Art Museum's Community Education Programs.

The twenty-fourth year of Art to Heart was yet another wonderful celebration of talented artists. This year guests flocked to Forest Hills to enjoy a night of art, dinner, and entertainment. The country club took on a 1920's Jazz Lounge theme - complete with a Jazz quartet.
