12 HONOR ROLL OF DONORS

Dear Friends of the Reid Health Foundation,

Friends,

Together, we did it!

Reid Health was one of 293 hospitals in the United States and one of 13 in the state of Indiana to receive a five-star rating from the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS) in a recent release of data. The ratings are based on seven areas – mortality, readmission, safety of care, patient experience, efficient use of medical imaging, timeliness of care, and effectiveness of care.

While this recognition is something to celebrate, our focus at Reid Health continues to be providing the highest quality of care to our patients that we serve. It is a privilege to be a part of this community and we thank you always for your ongoing support.

Grateful to serve,
Robin

THE BLEED

SAVE A LIFE

Reid Health Foundation

funds lifesaving trauma kits

In traumatic emergencies, minutes can mean the difference between life and death. And Reid Foundation's support to the Stop the Bleed initiative aims to help the community to make the most out of those minutes.

Just as CPR courses train bystanders to save lives in the event a person's heart or breathing stops, the Stop the Bleed program intends to train people to stop major bleeding. Because death from blood loss can happen in a matter of minutes, those nearby are the best positioned to save the injured person's life. "We want to train as many people as possible to stop major bleeding," says Reid Health's Jacob Cox, Injury Prevention manager and EMS Manager. "An average emergency response time is eight minutes, more than twice the time it takes for a person to die from blood loss. If someone nearby has been trained to treat bleeding, they can save lives."

According to the Federal Emergency Management Agency, traumatic injury is the number one cause of death for Americans younger than 46. Whether from natural disasters or an automobile accident, life-threatening injuries require immediate action. In many cases, that means that a quick-thinking bystander can take action and save lives.

"We want everyone in high-risk environments like factories, metal shops, and even woodworking shops to know how to identify bleeding as life-threatening and know what to do to stop it," Cox continues. "So we approached Reid Foundation about offering training courses for first responders and school teachers, and providing them with trauma kits."

Providing a grant to offer training and kits to the community was a no-brainer, said Justin Burkhardt, the director of Reid Foundation. "The Reid Foundation board and I saw this as a significant community need. It made a lot of sense to take on this initiative because we knew training like this was missing in our community and would save lives."

Since the start of Reid Health's Stop the Bleed initiative, Reid Health professionals have trained police officers, schoolteachers, members of the community, and emergency responders how to successfully apply tourniquets to slow or stop bleeding, avoid tissue damage, and save lives. In the spring Dr. Bard Barrett & Reid Trauma Services' Jacob Cox presented to the state house on the importance of the Stop the Bleed Program. The Reid Health team has provided more than 476 "trauma kits" and trained nearly 700 people through the program since its inception. A trauma kit contains supplies like tourniquets and bandages. They should be stored in easy-to-access locations like in or near AED stations.

Thanks to the support of Reid Foundation, all police officers in Richmond's police department carry these potentially life-saving trauma kits. The Foundation also supplied them to every school in Wayne County and to schools in seven adjoining counties.

Already, these kits have been put into action and saved lives. "In April, a police officer on the scene of a life-threatening injury deployed his trauma kit," says Cox. "He had been through Stop the Bleed training with Reid Health, and the tourniquet was placed correctly. That patient had a positive outcome. It saved the person's life."

"This is exactly what Reid Health Foundation is all about," says Burkhardt. "We are proud and grateful to be able to support our community through programs like these."

Unlike the 2017 ReidRide, Mother Nature was more kind to the event this year. The 10th anniversary of ReidRide saw the sun shining and a temperature that stayed fairly cool until later in the afternoon. Riders were excited to participate again this year and flocked to Reid Health early in the morning on July 14th. Once on the road riders were treated to a completely new course. 2018's course took riders onto the Cardinal Greenway and sent them north to Williamsburg, east through Fountain City, and then south back to Reid Health.

The ride, as usual, is a great event and emphasizes health and wellness in Wayne County. However, what is all this for? As with past years the funds raised from ReidRide were used to purchase shoes for kids in need in our service area. The Reid Health Foundation is proud to report that in 2018 records were broken with numbers of shoes purchased and distributed. Over 2,400 shoes were purchased and distributed at four events. These locations included Connersville, Eaton, Lynn, and The Boys & Girls Club of Wayne County.

Being a volunteer at one of these distributions can change your life. Children come in, gripping their parent's hands tightly, eyes shining with excitement, just waiting for their turn. Once they sit down and are fitted, most of the time, they need to hop, skip, or run around a bit...you know...to make sure the shoes work properly. Once these children have their shoes and are ready to go they grip onto their box as if it might hop out of their hands at any moment. Billie Kester, Reid Health Vice President, was a volunteer at one of these events she shared, "one little boy who was there with his mom and two older sisters was very patient as his siblings were fitted. I was dreading the time for his turn as I was certain we would be out of his size by that time. I cautioned the boy and his mother that I was afraid we may have run out of his size, but we scoured the shoes and were able to find one last pair. After I was able to try them on him, he stood and gave me the biggest hug and said he loved me. Honestly, it was one of the most heart-warming moments I have ever experienced."

Sharrie Harlin, Reid Health Community Outreach Coordinator, was contacted by a friend who shared just how much of an impact the distribution made to her former coworker. "A former coworker has returned to school and her two daughters have had it rough, knowing that they are all sacrificing for a better life. Saturday they attended the Santa in the Park event in Connersville and received shoes. The little girls put the new shoes by their bed as they couldn't asleep without their new shoes beside them. She said the smiles on their faces were priceless."

Every day there are children going to school in shoes that are too small, have holes, or are falling apart. Without ReidRide, Shoes for Kids, and donors like you we would not be able to provide good quality shoes to those in need. Thank you!

For more information on Shoes for Kids and to volunteer, donate, or sponsor ReidRide please contact the Reid Health Foundation at 765-983-3102.

BRAvo! 2018

October at Reid Health is BRAvo! month. The Reid Health Foundation combats breast cancer by holding the annual BRAvo! – Busting Out Against Breast Cancer Signature Event. In 2018, 140 guests arrived at the Reid Health campus on October 27th to enjoy a night of fun and fundraising.

Beginning in August bra decoration begins, with bras being submitted and voted on in September, and finally cumulating in the Signature Event in October. This year 51 bras were turned in, they ranged from bras dedicated to family members and survivors. Other bras were created based on popular movies and TV shows like “Incrediboobs,” created by Mercedes Harrison, Tonya Foster, Joy Arnett, Kitty Henson, and Jackie Wolfal and “Mischief Managed,” a Harry Potter themed bra created by Tarah Shearer and the Reid Health Oncology Office Staff.

2018 featured Pink Out games at Centerville, IU East, and Northeastern. During these games breast cancer ribbons and prevention information was passed out by volunteers. After voting ended the bras were brought back to Reid and paired with auction items to be sold during Signature Event.

Guests were invited to the second floor of the outpatient care center which had been turned into a celebratory atmosphere with music, a photo booth, and a silent auction. Once the silent auction concluded guests proceeded to Lingle Grand Hall for the main event, the live auction. This year memorialized Mary Hoppe, who lost her battle with breast cancer. Mary was such a beautiful soul and a dedicated philanthropist. Family and friends from Hoppe Jewelers were front and center to celebrate the life of their loved one.

To-date BRAvo! has raised over a quarter of a million dollars in support of free mammograms to individuals in need in our service area. Over 5,000 mammograms have been performed on those in need because of BRAvo!. The BRAvo! mammogram event covers Reid’s newest technology of the 3D mammograms. This 3D technology allows doctors to see more during a scan so there is less need for biopsy and additional testing. If you or someone you know is in need of a mammogram, has no insurance, or is underinsured all they need to do is call (765) 983-3358 and tell the operator they need a BRAvo! mammogram. It is truly that simple.

Red Dress Ball

Andddd they're off!! In February 2019 guests from near and far flocked to the Kuhlman Center to celebrate another Red Dress Ball gala. This year's theme, "Running for the Roses - A Night At the Races," invited attendees to partake in delicious southern style food while dancing the night away to Living Proof. As with previous years this event funds the Reid Health AED program which provides this much needed machine to not-for-profits in Reid's service area.
